

St George's Bristol Prize for Music Recipients 2019

We are delighted to announce that the recipient of the St George's Prize for Music 2019 is Churchill Music!

Churchill Music is a small charity that works tirelessly in its local community and beyond, running and funding a variety of projects for schools and young people that help stress that music really is for everyone and has enormous benefits for educational, social and personal development in general.

Their work includes: in primary schools a 'Power of Music' project and the long-term funding of whole class violin lessons, annual secondary schools' composition projects and Young Musician of the Year competition, and the creation of an important documentary film 'How Music helps us Learn'. This is all in addition to staging an annual concert series that often gives vital performance opportunities to young professional musicians at an early stage in their careers.

Congratulations Churchill Music!
